

The Teaching Professor Technology Conference

The Teaching Professor Technology Conference brings together faculty, instructional designers, faculty developers, educational technology leaders, and other higher education professionals interested in learning more about how technology is altering the learning environment.

"I came away from this conference with a great deal of practical information that I'll be able to implement immediately in both my online and on-campus classes."

– Teaching Professor Technology Conference Attendee

Conference at-a-Glance

Date: October 2-4, 2015

Location: New Orleans

Attendance: 700

The Teaching Professor Technology Conference will be organized around six key elements of teaching and learning:

- Faculty Development
- Course Design
- Legal Issues and Policy
- Grading and Feedback
- Student Engagement
- Content Delivery

Like our annual Teaching Professor Conference held in the spring, the technology conference provides an atmosphere that makes it easy to ask questions, engage in discussion, and share your experiences.
