Why is Intercultural Competence Important and How Can it Improve my Teaching?

In this 20-minute session, participants learn to reflect on their own assumptions that they bring to the classroom, as well as strategies to overcome assumptions and foster a more culturally responsive approach to teaching.

Upon completion of this program, you’ll be able to:

- Understand some of the myths of intercultural competence
- Learn three key skills to obtaining intercultural competence
- Recognize the cognitive, behavioral, and affective behaviors that build intercultural competence
