How Can I Spark Conversation in the Classroom?

Student engagement—especially in conversation and peer interaction—can be a big challenge for college educators.

This 20-Minute Mentor introduces four tried-and-true techniques to create a learning environment that is literally buzzing with student conversation. These activities can be translated into diverse classroom settings, regardless of course topic. The suggested methods will not only spur conversation in the moment but will also transform the classroom dynamic to encourage more active participation from the student group. Ultimately, they are tools to motivate teachers and students to strive toward an ever-more active learning environment.

Upon completion of this program, you'll be able to:

- Explain four techniques to generate student conversation in the classroom and engagement
- Recognize how these methods could work in their classroom
- Implement one or more of these methods in their teaching
