How Can I Create Assessments to Effectively Measure Student Learning?

Assessment is a crucial aspect of teaching and learning. It's the primary tool that educators use to measure student achievement and progress. However, designing assessments that accurately reflect the goals of student learning outcomes can be a daunting task for many educators.

For educators looking for tools to implement or that need to refine practices already in place, this 20-Minute Mentor will:

- Explore strategies to overcome common challenges instructors face when designing assessments

- Introduce key characteristics of effective assessments
- Provide a four-step process to create effective assessments using those characteristics

Upon completion of this program, you'll be able to:

- Describe the three types of assessment and their purposes
- Explain the characteristics of effective assessments
- Create an assessment aligned with a learning outcome
