How Can I Become a Better Online Instructor?

Many who teach online find it less satisfying than teaching in person. This may be due to the lack of in-person interactions or not physically being there for the aha moments your students create.

This 20-Minute Mentor will present five practical strategies to level up online teaching so that instructors experience greater satisfaction in their work and create more rewarding learning experiences for their students. Find that infectious energy in your teaching that makes students want to come to class!

Upon completion of this program, you'll be able to:

- Identify the unique challenges of online teaching and learning
- Apply practical strategies to improve online teaching and better find your energy
- Discuss specific approaches teachers can take to create a more successful online learning environment
