How Can I Spark and Sustain Engagement in Reluctant Learners?

Facing a classroom of skeptical and apathetic students can be daunting. The extra time and effort to engage reluctant learners often leads to increased frustration and disengagement, creating a negative learning environment.

In just 20 minutes, you can start turning those students into engaged and motivated learners with five proven gamification strategies. Join presenter Andrew Davies, Adjunct Professor at Virginia Commonwealth University, as he shares actionable insights and real-life examples, revealing not only what works in his own curriculum but also the common pitfalls to avoid. By embracing these strategies, you'll witness a remarkable boost in student motivation and performance, setting a new standard for classroom engagement.

Upon completion of this program, you'll be able to:

- Understand how to incorporate short, playful activities into an existing curriculum to boost student engagement
- Incentivize extra credit work
- Utilize the novel retrieval practice exercise
- Create a narrative around class assessments
